

Why I Don't Want to Buy Life Insurance

People who do act on their life insurance needs tend to focus on the positive aspects: the idea of meeting their responsibilities to provide for, and care for, their loved ones.

If you're like most people, it's not that you don't appreciate the value of life insurance. In fact, many people believe they need more coverage. You probably wouldn't mind owning additional life insurance. It's just that you don't want to buy it.

Thinking about buying life insurance, talking about buying life insurance, discussing the reasons for buying life insurance--all of this makes many people feel uncomfortable. Here are just some of the reasons why you may be putting off buying the life insurance you know you need.

I don't have enough time

You'll get around to buying life insurance, but not today. With all the things you've got to do, buying life insurance can come off as a low priority--just one more thing you ought to do. Plus, the whole idea of discussing life insurance isn't a whole lot of fun. Who wouldn't rather take the dogs for a walk on the beach, attend a child's softball game, or spend those precious few hours of free time in the evening visiting with friends?

Nonetheless, buying life insurance is really an important task that should be addressed. Life insurance can help ensure that your family will have enough money to meet their financial obligations in the event of your death.

The subject is boring and morbid

If you really don't like to think about death, you're not alone. Death is an unpleasant subject, and life insurance raises issues of our own mortality. Some people say that the very thought of starting the life insurance buying process makes them feel stressed out. There's no great appeal to contemplating our own mortality. It's a subject we'd rather ignore than address. The result can be inertia or denial.

It doesn't have to be that way. People who do act on their life insurance needs tend to focus on the positive aspects: the idea of meeting their responsibilities to provide for, and care for, their loved ones. They think of it as contingency planning, protecting their families against the uncertainties of life. They also recognize that life insurance is really about life and love, about helping to ensure a positive quality of life for their spouse and children if they die prematurely.

I don't know where to start

If you don't have a clue about which type of policy is right for you, or how much life insurance you need, join the club. Few of us truly understand life insurance: why we need it, what type of policy is best, how much we need, when and how benefits are paid, how benefits may be taxed, and more. That's okay. It's not your job to know everything about life insurance. That's the job of an insurance professional.

Thinking you need to have all of the answers about which type of life insurance is best for you is sort of like needing surgery and thinking you need to know which type of scalpel to use. That's the surgeon's job. In the same respect, the right insurance professional can guide you through the process of selecting the policy that best suits your needs, budget, and objectives, and can answer your questions.

Life insurance isn't a high priority compared with the other expenses I have

For many underinsured people, it's not so much that they don't want the life insurance they need; it's just difficult to find the extra dollars to pay for it.

Five reasons to buy life insurance

- To provide continuing income for your family members
- To pay off debts you leave behind
- To pay final expenses and taxes
- To provide an estate for your loved ones
- To leave money to charity

Buying life insurance you can't afford benefits no one. If it causes your family hardship or requires you to make choices that seem incongruous ("Gee kids, I'd love to take you on vacation, but our life insurance premium is due"), you'll eventually discontinue the policy. Then you lose, and your family loses.

That's why it's important to purchase a policy that meets your needs and your budget. Fortunately, there are many types of life insurance available. These include term life insurance policies and various types of permanent (cash value) life insurance policies. Term policies provide life insurance protection for a specific period of time. If you die during the coverage period, your beneficiary receives the policy's death benefit. If you live to the end of the term, the policy simply terminates, unless it automatically renews for a new period.

Permanent insurance policies offer protection for your entire life, regardless of future health changes, provided you pay the premium to keep the policy in force. As you pay your premiums, a portion of each payment goes toward building up the policy's cash value, which may be accessed through loans or withdrawals. (Keep in mind, though, that loans and withdrawals will reduce the cash value and the death benefit, and could cause the policy to lapse). The cash value continues to grow--tax deferred--as long as the policy is in force.

Several different types of permanent life insurance are available, including:

- Whole life insurance
- Universal life insurance
- Variable life
- Variable universal life

Note: Variable life and variable universal life insurance policies are offered by prospectus, which you can obtain from your financial professional or the insurance company. The prospectus contains detailed information about investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses. You should read the prospectus and consider this information carefully before purchasing a variable life or variable universal life insurance policy.

The bottom line

It's easy to understand why people tend to put off purchasing the life insurance they know they need. But look at it this way: buying life insurance is one way you can help secure your family's financial future. And what could be better than knowing your loved ones will be protected, even if you're no longer around to take care of them?

Pursuant to IRS Circular 230, We are providing you with the following notification: The information contained in this document is not intended to (and cannot) be used by anyone to avoid IRS penalties. This document supports the promotion and marketing of New England Financial products and services. You should seek advice based on your particular circumstances from an independent tax advisor. New England Financial, its agents, and representatives may not give legal or tax advice. Any discussion of taxes herein or related to this document is for general information purposes only and does not purport to be complete or cover every situation. Tax law is subject to interpretation and legislative change. Tax results and the appropriateness of any product for any specific taxpayer may vary depending on the facts and circumstances. You should consult with and rely on your own independent legal and tax advisers regarding your particular set of facts and circumstances. This document is provided to you for informational purposes only, and is not intended to represent any specific product or service offered. Unless noted, insurance policies and annuity contracts contain exclusions, limitations, reductions of benefits, surrender charges and terms for keeping them in force. Not all strategies or concepts can be used with all products offered. You may need to check with your representative to determine whether any limitations (administrative or otherwise) may apply. This material reflects the law established under The Tax Relief, Unemployment Insurance Reauthorization and Job Creation Act of 2010 ("Act"). Among other changes, the Act temporarily establishes minimum exemption amounts of $5,000,000 per person for federal gift, estate and generation skipping transfer tax (together referred to as "transfer tax") purposes, establishes a maximum transfer tax rate of 35% and provides for portability of the estate tax exemption between spouses. These changes, however, are only in effect through December 31, 2012. Unless Congress enacts new legislation, on January 1, 2013 the transfer tax laws will revert to the laws (e.g. exemption amounts of $1,000,000 and generally 55% maximum tax rates) in effect in 2001. At this time it is not clear what steps, if any, Congress will take to revise the transfer tax laws for years beyond 2012. Changes in transfer tax exemption amounts and transfer tax rates may impact the appropriateness of any transfer tax planning strategy or product sale. Securities products, including mutual funds and variable annuities are sold by prospectus, which is available from your registered representative. For information about a securities product please obtain a prospectus and read it carefully before you invest to consider investment objectives, risks, charges, and expenses. This material is prepared by Forefield, Inc. New England Financial and its affiliates are separate entities from Forefield, and do not guarantee the accuracy of the information presented. Any calculations contained in this document are for hypothetical purposes only and may be calculated off information you provide. Performance figures are for illustrative purposes only, do not represent actual past or projected future investment results and do not guarantee future results. Unless noted, costs are not included, and may reduce projected figures. Results should be used as educational and may not contain all variables specific to your situation. Please see your representative for questions specific to your own situation. New England Financial is the service mark of New England Life Insurance Company, Boston, MA 02116 and New England Securities. Securities products and investment advisory services are offered through registered representatives and investment advisor representatives, respectively, of New England Securities Corp., Member FINRA/SIPC and a registered investment advisor, 501 Boylston St., Boston, MA 02116. New England Financial is a MetLife company. L0211160197[exp0112][All States][DC]